At ITUS we have fully trained operational teams of Agents in over 130 Countries. Their experience includes infiltrating organisations at the operational level and gaining intelligence when in situ. This intelligence allows our client to make informed business decisions regarding outside influencers.

- What is the operational makeup of the target organisation?
- What are they planning to do?
- Are they trying to harm the business?
- Are they trying to ruin the businesses reputation?
- Are they lobbying?
- Who are the people doing this?
- What disruptive projects are they working on?
- Are there any illegal activities taking place?
- What is their strategy to harm your business?

All these questions and many more can be answered by undercover operations. We have experience of undertaking these assignments, from single companies in the UK, Europe and Asia. At one point we had operations in 7 countries at the same time investigating multiple companies and people in multi jurisdictions.

Our clients obtain in depth reports on the organisations and people wishing them harm. They then have the upper hand in being forewarned of events before they become critical. This saves reputation, money and credibility.
